"A Little Learning"

Copyright, 1916, International News Service.

By Nell Brinkley

"A Little Learning Is a Dangerous Thing," for With It We May Write a Message in Any Country.

GIVEN a frosty pane and the white world outside for it to stand out against, the warm world, the scent of flowers and two who love within, three words are quite enough to know to get somebody into trouble. Oh—trouble of the heart and mind!—so that one's dreams are tangled and they can neither eat their porridge nor plow their field, nor walk to market without writing two hearts in the snow, nor remember what one came for after one gets there, nor hear when any one calls, nor see what one is looking at! Given three words, and there is a pretty pudding! After that one begins to know when the moon is full, and what time she goes home every evening, and when her birthday is, and what flowers she likes best, and whether she likes too big a house—oh!—or just a little one—ah-ah!—and just what a girl—her kind—likes best in a man—your kind!

A frosty pane—and a little knowledge! And the book of Love—a monstrous thick volume with mighty thin leaves and heaps of notes that you have to be looking up all the time—is open! You are a scholar for good and all. And the rules therein are hard and fast, and they always say, "THIS given certain conditions is ALWAYS true—Unless!" And then there's an exception to look up.

A little learning—and a dainty pink forefinger tracing what it knows on the glistening pane!

—NELL BRINKLEY.

How often have you looked in the mirror and said to yourself: "I wish I knew just how to have a perfect complexion, a smooth, soft skin, an abundance of wavy hair, well arched eyebrows, long curly lashes, and that fascinating presence which wins such admiration."

Nature intended every woman to be as beautiful as she can make herself. But success depends on knowing just how to go about it in the Right Way—whether you have a fair, rosy complexion, a mottled, dusky complexion, freckles, blackheads, enlarged pores, sagging facial muscles, thin, scrawny hair, or any of the other defects which destroy all appearance of beauty and make you look not only unattractive but positively homely and old.

I should certainly never have been able to win two International Beauty Prizes unless I had known the Right Way, and it is this which I give you in detail in my Three-Part Course of Instruction. You will find there "Why" and the "What to do," and the "How" on every conceivable subject relating to the improvement of your appearance. I will tell you the real secrets which I employed on myself, and scores of other such valuable aids to beauty that many who had given up ever looking fresh and youthful again now say my Course has been worth hundreds of dollars to them. If you would like to read my Course and avail yourself of my free face powder offer—simply cut out and send me the coupon below. SEND NO MONEY—not even a postage stamp. Keep the Course for three days after you receive it, and try the beauty secrets contained therein, and if at the end of that time you are convinced that it will wonderfully aid you in making yourself more beautiful, youthful, fascinating and attractive and you wish to retain it, send me $1.19. Otherwise return the Course and you will owe me nothing. I will also send you, absolutely free, six packets containing six different colors of wonderful silk-meshed face powder—three of Poudre Petalinas and three of Poudre Fascination—so that you may select the one best suited to your skin and complexion. Then, if you decide to keep the Course, you can let me know the kind and color you prefer and I will send you a regular 50-cent Box free.

Do not decide as to whether you want my Course or not on the short description given in this paper, but send for it and look it over at my expense, then decide.
